

SoftWIRE, the popular graphical programming extension for Visual Studio .NET is now FREE!

MasTec Ltd, the distributor of the Graphical Programming Language Softwire for New Zealand, has an important announcement, Oct 6th, 2004

SoftWIRE Technology have just announced that SoftWIRE will now be offered FREE of charge to any individual or corporation worldwide, by download from <http://www.softwire.com/>

The award winning SoftWIRE package allows users to quickly and easily create software applications in .NET, without writing any code. Users simply select the GUI controls required for the application from over 200 provided, then connect the controls with simple drag-and-drop wires.

“By offering this product for free, we will provide an open graphical programming standard which will benefit the entire measurement industry,” said Bendrix Bailey, CEO of SoftWIRE Technology. “We already have a number of OEMs that have committed to standardize on SoftWIRE, and that number will rise dramatically as people consider the powerful software they may now provide their customers at no charge.”

It is now possible to build sophisticated DAQ systems using Softwire and low cost USB DAQ for minimal outlay of about $300NZ.
